FunctionEight – Letter of Recommendation

I am pleased to write this letter of recommendation confirming that we engaged FunctionEight in February, 2008, to assist us in the setup and maintenance of our new operational offices in Hong Kong. Our engagement of the Company involved not only recommending and quoting for the supply of both hardware and software, but also the purchase and installation of same. In addition, the Company had to coordinate closely with our parent company's central IT Department located in the UK, as well as initially with the IT Department of the business centre in which our start-up office was located. All requirements we set for FunctionEight were performed under tight deadlines and with on-time delivery and a high quality of service.

In August 2008, we moved into our own permanent offices in Central and FunctionEight assisted us with this move, also providing invaluable advice regarding getting our new location operational. This advice included the recommendation of high quality internet connections and excellent telecommunications systems.

Throughout its engagement by us, FunctionEight has provided a proactive maintenance service for all of our hardware and software. This has ensured that our computers are always working at optimum levels of performance and that computer issues are truly minimized. As a result, our staff have been able to maximise their effectiveness and productivity.

In essence, FunctionEight's tagline of "Your Outsourced IT Department" is, in our view, an apt and accurate description of the service the Company has provided to us. We truly felt that the Company's staff were part of our team and that their service delivery was always of an extremely high standard.

I would have no hesitation in recommending FunctionEight to any SME requiring IT Support; by our experience in this same context, the Company can truly be relied upon.
